Welcome to James Riley, new owner of the Cincinnati Swarm. James is from Kentucky where he is "living in the witness protection program, wanted in a number of states and one foreign country for various crimes, mostly of a procrastinatory nature." He is a long time board gamer but new to pc sports sims in general and APCFB in particular so be kind to him.

Our best thoughts to Rick Tharp who will be on hiatus while he deals with a serious matter at home.

On Hamachi: Part Two

Apparently, announcements of Hamachi's demise have been premature. Erik and Jim have both reported using Hamachi in their summer leagues without any problems. There are a number of plausible scenarios about why the reports that Hamachi no longer works have emerged including, and most likely, that LogMeIn is moving to an all subscription model. For now, we're going to assume that Hamachi is still our go to option but we'll monitor the situation and switch to a free alternative if it becomes necessary. In the meantime, it would be smart to have a little pre-season connectivity test so I am scheduling pre-season scrimmages. Take five minutes over the next week or two to connect with your opponent and play enough of a quarter to feel confident that everything is working with your preferred method of playing head to head.
